Japanese Garrison in North China
At Outbreak of the Marco Polo Bridge Incident
7 July 1937

Headquarters, China Garrison Army (at Tienching): Lt. Gen. Tashiro*

Headquarters, Infantry Brigade (Peking)
1st Infantry Regiment
   Main Force (Peking)
      1 Battalion (Fengtai)
      1 Battalion (Tienching)
2nd Infantry Regiment
   Main Force (Tienching)
   Element ((between Tienching & Shanyaikuan)
Artillery Regiment (Tienching)
Tank Unit (Tienching)
Cavalry Unit (Tienching)
Engineer Unit (Tienching)
Signal Unit (Tienching)

Chinese Facing Japanese (29th Army): Sung Cheyuan (warlord)
37th Infantry Division (under Feng Chih-an, between Peking & Chingyuan)
38th Infantry Division (under Chaotengyu, between Peking & Tienching)
132nd Infantry Division (under Chaotengyu in south Hopeh Province)
143rd Infantry Division (under Liu Juming, in Chahar Province)
2 Independent Brigades
2 Cavarly Divisions

* Tashiro was recalled to Tokoyon on 11 July 1937. He died enroute and was replaced by Lt. General Kiyoshi Katsuki.

Copyright GFN 2004